

InComm Europe Recruits Team Of UK Territory Sales Managers

Due to rapid expansion gift card centre specialist Incomm Europe has recruited a team of 6 territory sales managers to manage their centres in key retailers such as Shell.

The team of six consists of Amey Brown, Richard Wilkins, Jason Williams, Richard Steel, Jane Rowland and Rebecca Tomalin.

Amey Brown - Previously Amey worked for O2 as a field sales executive. Her role at InComm will be to train and educate staff at Shell forecourts within The Midlands and Wales, report any problems with displays, replenish stock and oversee the running of the centres.

Richard Wilkins - Before InComm, Richard worked as a Media Sales executive at Infoserve where he sold advertising space for yahoo local and google. His role at InComm will be to manage existing accounts, set up displays and raise staff awareness in stores across the North East and Scotland.

Jason Williams - Previously Jason has worked as a retail training officer and for 21st Century Fox where he looked after the accounts for Sainsbury's, Woolworths, Superdrug and HMV, promoting the latest films in store. He will be monitoring outlets within the London North area for InComm.

Richard Steel - Until recently, Richard worked for Field Marketing Company CPM on the GSK account promoting Lucozade and Ribena brands within the independent retail sector. He will now be managing the InComm accounts in Shell forecourts throughout the South West.

Jane Rowland - Jane joined InComm Europe as an Account Manager and has been promoted to a TSM role. She will now be focusing on the Shell outlets in London South, building relationships with site managers and overseeing these accounts.

Rebecca Tomalin - After spending a year in Egypt working with Kuoni as a TSM for Heinz, Del Monte and Charles Worthington, Rebecca will now look after 104 stores liaising with franchise managers in Shell garages across the North of England.

Chris Burrett, Head of Marketing at InComm Europe says: "In less than a year InComm Europe has secured contracts with Sainsbury's, Asda, Shell and Woolworth's stores. The company is expanding and our team is growing – the TSMs will help provide the support network that these retail outlets require throughout the UK."